

Advancing Leadership and Ethics through Research and Education

The Coach K/Fuqua Center of Leadership and Ethics (COLE) and Trust Unlimited cordially invites Fuqua Alumni to COLE's first workshop.

Building Trust

Saturday, May 22, 9am-5pm

and

Sunday, May 23, 8:30am-1pm

The Fuqua School of Business- Classroom C

Free of Charge

OBJECTIVE

Learn a clear, practical problem-solving framework to improve your ability to identify and solve trust issues, and to quickly build trust-based relationships. Return to Fuqua and take advantage of this opportunity to meet, network and connect with fellow alumni.

FORMAT

This intense two-day workshop will be interactive and practical, with a mix of lectures, role-plays, exercises, and brainstorming sessions. Course materials and lunch will be provided.

INSTRUCTORS

Darryl Stickel

Founder of Trust Unlimited, a Canada-based consulting company, Darryl developed the trust model that is core to understanding and building trust. As a consultant with McKinsey & Company, he has worked with individuals and numerous organizations on trust issues and operational and strategic issues. He holds a PhD in business from the Fuqua School of Business at Duke University, with a concentration in organizational behavior, specifically: conflict resolution, negotiation, justice, strategy and trust.

Fritz Mayer

Fritz is one of the world's leading experts on negotiation, conflict resolution, global bargaining and trust. He is Head of Graduate Studies at the Terry Sanford Institute of Public Policy at Duke University and has won numerous teaching awards, exhibiting a rare blend of academic excellence and teaching prowess. He holds a PhD from Harvard.

Free of charge. Seating is limited to 30 on a first come first served basis.

RSVP to Tejumade.Ajasa@duke.edu to attend.